

Our ancestors did this for 50,000 years until they learned how to use the scientific method, learned from it then wrote down knowledge for the young to learn from. But when they learned to share it, and use it for the common good they advanced faster than before. Love and Kindness and the spirit of community is the life blood of civilization when all work for the benefit of all.

