

Rivard farm photo credit Mike Grobhal. By 1920 many farmers were doing truck farming or had family members working in factories. With Ford's cars being less expensive and more reliable Americans were increasingly using automobiles.

Catalog drawing above.

Shoe skating from reading book

Ice skating on creeks

Ryan Road

Get a Horse was heard throughout the land. Dirt roads were later paved with gravel and deep ditches dug. But these were dangerous in the winter.

